I am a live action stunt performer, professional wrestler, competitive strongman and screen action specialist. I have trained and worked in combat performance since the age of 15 and perform for various fight teams and live shows, including Europe's largest Mexican wrestling federation, Lucha Britannia.

Physical action and acting makes up my entire life. When I'm not performing, I'm competing; when I'm not competing, I'm training; when I'm not training, I'm teaching; when I'm not teaching I'm producing my own immersive theatre and live action fight shows. I also coach combat as drama for schools and colleges, as well as for companies like British Action Academy and History in the Making. A particular favourite pastime is working with artists and musicians like the Libertines, Frank Turner and Everything Everything, to choreograph, direct and act in their music videos.

As a performer, my lifetime of live performance and competitive experience gives me a particular ability to hold character, improvise safely, and perform a wide range of specialist action within the realms of fighting, falling and feats requiring uncommon strength.
